The firm known as Gebbie and Dods will be interested by orders under the style of Albert Gebbie.

Regarding the above, all accounts due to Messrs Gebbie & Dods must be paid to the undersigned, and all accounts due by the firm, will be acknowledged by the same. He (the undersigned) being the sole and only proprietor of the firm.

ALBERT GEBBIE.

In the line of horses, Mr. Lahusen's sire Krowprins attracted most notice. This horse has been for some time in service on his estancia in the Banda Oriental, and we believe will be sold at the close of the Exhibition; he comes of a special carriage horse breed, renowned throughout all Germany, and is the first of the breed ever brought to this country. Mr. Getting's imported horses also attracted great note. Lord Lincoln, belonging to Mr. Casares, a noble sire, and of that heavy cart horse breed used by the brewers in England, a young mare bred in this country, of the same breed, shows that it is not in the least inferior to the imported. Sultana, a beautiful Cleveland mare, is another of the Getting beauties, and Louise, also imported by the same gentleman, looks like a racer fresh from the Curragh of Kildare.

The Marcos Paz Negrettes from the Cabaña Bernardino Rivadavia of Mr. Bruckner, almost eclipsed the Chas Negrettes; we really never saw finer imported rams and ewes, and yet these animals never saw Europe, we believe that soon we shall be exporting Argentine Negrettes to Europe. These animals will also be sold after the Exhibition; we only wish we had them down on the Rio Negro, a few Orilla Pampa sheep from Bahia Blanca, close up to San Blas, also attracted much note, they have very long wool, but are as wild as goats and very thin, still they look just the type to cross with Lincolns.

Several military bands of music were on the ground and played at intervals. At 2 o'clock Mr. Sunblad, President of the Rural Society, opened the Exhibition with a short, eloquent speech. Governor Rocha was asked to speak, H.E. proposed three cheers for the Rural Society. The grounds were now filled with people, and the machinery department seemed almost as thronged as before; we noticed two French women wearing silk which drew crowds. Every description of agricultural implement was there, but of this anon. We have not now room to dwell on this important branch.

Compared with the last Exhibition the figures show a falling off in the show by some of our Pasha exhibitors. The Exhibits show as follows:

1880 1881

Horses..... 111 72

Cows..... 46 67

Sheep..... 114 98

Pigs..... 3 26

Goats..... 2 11

The South African ostriches looked splendid and all the estancieros are anxious to know more about the ostrich business—where is Mr. Hill?

The following are the Chief exhibitors:

Carlos Casares, Antonio Cambaros, Florencio Molina, Miguel Lima, Pedro Acevedo, Leonardo Pezaira, Felipe Botet, Luis Maria Saavedra, Vicente L. Casares, Ocampo Huon, Narciso Vivot, Tomas E. Newton, Pedro Pinero, Martin de Gainza, Juan Carlos Molina, David Shumann, Diego Carman, Exequiel de Ella, Mariano M. Benitez, Juan E. Encarna, German Freese, Francisco Chas hijos.

Juan Fair, Nicandro Villar, Enrique Sanblad, Matias Ramos Mejia, la Compania de Tramways Ciudad de Buenos Aires, Patricio Reid, Federico M. Tercero, Norberto Quirnos, Santiago Luro, Jose Orozco, Guillermo Anderson, Amador y Medina, Manuel Guerrero and some others.

THE 100,000 LOAN.

PRESIDENT ROCA'S MESSAGE.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 23, 1880. To the Congress of the Nation.

If there was once upon a time occasion to discuss the prerogative that a nation enjoys of paying off its debts at any moment, it is now, at least, an undisputed fact. The most advanced nations of Europe and the United States of America have used same policy, when compatible with the situation and public interests of the country.

On this undisputed right, which has been accepted, recognised and put into practice by nations, is based the operation known as the conversion of the Public Debt, in order to effect a reduction in the amount or heavy interests that burden the National treasury. The justice of the procedure is based on the other made to the creditor of the State to reduce the interest on his bond by changing it for another, or to receive integrally the total amount of his credits at par.

The convenience to the State is evident, since with a lesser sum it can meet the obligations to its creditors, and is enabled at the same time to attend to the usual public service, under a reduced system of taxation in the country, or place a larger capital to increase the wealth, comfort, and development of the nation.

The opportune moment to realise these operations depends on a combination of many circumstances and complicated elements, not easily defined and specified, but which show in their results by the improved credit of the State and the facilities for solving financial problems that the opportunity has arrived to effect the vast operation of consolidation of the debt, in order to make it less onerous and more reliable for the sake of the creditor.

I believe that this moment has come for our country, and every day it is being more felt, and I, therefore, hope that the appended Bill will meet with your approbation.

Allow me to present to you the table of the Home and Foreign Debt of the Nation, that you may with all accuracy appreciate the Bill that I have framed on the subject.

The following shows how the Public Debt will stand on the 31st of December of the present year, and also the different dates when the several emissions will be extinguished, should their present service be continued:—

ize in a short time at least the most onerous of its debts.

The credit of the country at home and abroad is rapidly reaching the level it has a right to. Our debts, religiously paid even in the midst of the greatest difficulties, brought on by our political errors and the effects of a commercial crisis, have gained confidence for us at home and abroad, and consequently our credit is improved and increased.

The nation is now definitely constituted; peace at home and abroad is assured; public and private wealth is being rapidly developed, and the moment has arrived to avail of the country's credit for its own benefit. The use made of our credit should, however, be moderate and within prudent limits, still in full confidence that we have a legitimate right to use what has been so fairly won. I think that the annexed project of Law consults all the interests referred to, and is in accordance with the ideas I have laid before you. I therefore hope that you will sanction it.

JULIO A. ROCA,
Juan Jose Romero.

EDITOR'S TABLE

The R.M.S. Donoro's passengers had a nice day for sailing. The mails were pretty heavy.

The Tribune Nacional published an important bit of news yesterday. Our colleague gives it simply as a rumour, but we are inclined to look on it as true. It is said that the U. States Government has definitely informed Chile that she will not be allowed to annex one inch of Peruvian territory, but must be content with a war indemnity, for which the U. States will become guarantor. This is most important news, and will lead to quite a new departure in West Coast affairs.

The Clerk of the Weather smiled his best smile on the opening of the Cattle Show at Palermo yesterday. Full particulars in our reading column. It seems to have been a grand affair.

The Hundred Million Loan has given financiers another card to chew; they generally say it is all in my 'ojito,' and perhaps they are right. No Congress has ever had so much loan work to do in one session as the present Parliament.

'I'm afraid, I'm afraid' is the refrain from the unfortunate South, and boats are in intense demand down there. The whole country there appears to be under water. Canals are badly wanted in the Southern partidos; whenever there is unusually heavy rain, the South is certain to be flooded. The works we heard so much about during the last inundation appear to be all a myth.

There was a nervous feeling yesterday morning amongst some of our editorial brethren, owing to a report that all the editors whose papers had published the news of the Chilean Treaty being passed by the Deputies would be laid by the heels in jail for having done so. The editors of the Nacion, Nacional, Libertad and Comercio, it appears, were condemned by the House to 29 days' imprisonment, and 8 days for the Directors of the Patria Argentina, Protesta, Siglo and Tribuna Nacional. The police were looking for our unfortunate colleagues all night long, but none of them were in bed up to 2 o'clock a.m., which is rather surprising, as editors generally retire early. At 7 o'clock yesterday morning Commissioners Suffern arrested Mr. Mitre y Vedia, representing the Nacion and the Directors of all the other papers named were arrested later in the day, the only one who managed to keep out of the way being the Director of the Patria Argentina. They are all in a nice alto room, and their friends are allowed to visit them. We send our imprisoned colleagues our condolence.

Before Congress closes, President Roca will ask it for leave to make a two months' tour to some part of the Republic, should his health or the State business require it. H.E. has well earned a holiday, if Congress had only worked as hard during the session as the Chief of the State and all his Ministers have done, there would be more to show for it.

There was a tremendous push at the Colon Theatre last night towards 8 o'clock. High Life equities were dropping their occupants at the door in scores, and the pressure at the 'cazuela' door reminded us of the best nights of the Italian opera.

Those whose nerves will not allow them to shelve themselves—and their name is Legion here—must get up early to-morrow, if they do not wish to pass the day with stubble on their chins. The closing edict will come into force, and all the barbers' shops will be closed at 10 a.m. sharp. The 'shavers' will hold a meeting in Plaza Victoria, to express their thanks to the Municipality, and all the other 'assistants' of all gremios are invited to attend. The Lord Mayor has written to the Chief of Police, requesting him to take steps to enforce the closing order, so there will be no playing fast and loose with it this time.</
